

Christmas Wishes
in Oz

A raging storm had passed through Oz, so strong that it had blown the stars right out of the sky! But this is Oz and these aren't just any old stars, they're magical and grant wishes to anyone who collects them.

The residents of Oz were causing chaos, wishing for all kinds of impossible things. Unfortunately, someone quite naughty wished for the Wicked Witch of the West to return!

The Scarecrow wisely used his wish to bring Dorothy back to Oz to help solve the crisis. They realised that the only way they could undo all of the crazy wishes would be to return the stars to the sky.

But first they had to convince the Munchkins to give up their wishes! The Munchkins wouldn't budge though, saying that they'd never had Christmas presents before because Santa couldn't reach them in Oz.

Suddenly Tin Man had an idea. If they kept just his star, he could use it to wish for gifts to appear under every Munchkin's tree, tomorrow, on Christmas morning. They finally agreed and handed in all of the stars.

The Wizard of Oz cleverly constructed a giant cannon to shoot all of the stars back into the sky.

The Wicked Witch appeared with her flying minions, but it was too late. Brave Lion managed to fire the cannon just in time!

As they blasted off, back up into the Oz sky, a huge trail of glitter covered the land and the Wicked Witch disappeared once again.

Finally, on Christmas morning, the Munchkins woke up and, to their great delight, found presents waiting for them.

With the crisis over, Dorothy and the gang said ‘Merry Christmas!’ to each other and she clicked her heels together to return home on Christmas Day.